VICHY, France, July 9.—The French chamber of deputies today approved a change in Frances constitution which will give the nation a totalitarian form of government under the virtual dictatorship of Marshal Henri Philippe Petain.

The proposal for a new constitution was approved by a vote of 395 to 3.

New Mobilization

Prior to this action, mobilization of two French military classes—those of 1914 and 1915—was revealed as the Petain government moved into the European totalitarian line-up.

Mobilization of still more military classes will follow, it was stated.

Shortly before approving alteration of the constitution, the chamber of deputies unanimously adopted a resolution calling for investigation of France's part in the European war against Germany for the purpose of "appropriate expiation."

Sidewalk Inspection Work Brings Results

New Castle sidewalks are getting close scrutiny these days from a roving "sidewalk inspector" who officially represents the city.

Thirty-six applications for new front walks were on file in City Engineer Glenn R. Throop's office yesterday. More were being reported today, Harold Woods who is making the inspection, began conferring with property owners Monday as to their sidewalk needs.

Property owners under the new plan must pay for materials for walk improvements, but the cost to them is less than in the past. A 40-foot sidewalk will cost about $28.

Woods indicated in his reports filed yesterday that many walks about the city are in need of repairs.

Official British announcements said that eight German planes were brought down yesterday and that three British aircraft were lost.

Some damage to buildings and a few casualties were reported.

Early Arrivals Hope For Word From Farley

Delegates In Chicago Believe President To Seek Nomination

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 9.—Arrival of Postmaster General James A. Farley the only man to whom President Roosevelt has communicated his decision as to whether he will seek a third term, took precedence over everything else today among party leaders who are in Chicago preparing for the opening of the Democratic national convention on Monday.

With few exceptions, most of the Democrats among the early arrivals feel that President Roosevelt will be a candidate for renomination, and they were hopeful of gaining definite word on the subject from Farley. The postmaster general, however, has declared he will not reveal what information Mr. Roosevelt imparted to him during their weekend talk in Hyde Park, N. Y.

Pending some definite public word on the third term issue, the general impression in Chicago was that all other Democratic aspirants for the presidency were "stymied" in their campaign efforts by the chief executive's continued silence.

(International News Service)

LA GUARDIA AIRPORT, N. Y., July 9—Wiping out all existing transport-plane records for transcontinental flying, a Transcontinenal and Western Air Stratoliner slipped down from the clouds to a smooth landing today after an epochal flight from the west coast.

The plane, which bore many of Hollywood's brightest stars on the record-breaking flight from Burbank, Cal., rolled to an effortless halt as aviation authorities awaited latest report from a sister ship which took off on a westward flight at 9:30 p. m. The eastbound plane settled on the runway after only 11 hours and 45 minutes of flying time. Most of the flight, a trail-blazing guide for future commercial avaition, was made at a four mile altitude—and at a four-mile-a-minute speed.

Film Stars On Board

Aboard the huge ship were Tyrone Power, Brenda Joyce, Paulette Goddard, Nancy Kelly and Producer Alexander Korda. Thus, these stars participated in a historic speed record which sent their craft hurtling along at such a pace that when it

English Refugee Children Welcome In U. S. Says Early

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The American government welcomes as many English refugee children as British shipping can bring to these shores, White House Secretary Stephen T. Early declared today.

The only condition, Early explained, was that the children be assured of proper homes.

Taking cognizance of recent newspaper criticism of the slowness with which the children are being brought in, Early explained that it is a British shipping bottleneck which is responsible and not dilatory tactics by the State department and American embassy in London in granting visas.

"As far as this government is concerned, the children are welcome and it is realized that time is the essence," Early said. "The government is bending every effort to aid refugee committees in expediting their transportation and placement."

Early denied vigorously that the State department was slow in granting visas. As fast as the New York committee advises it has found homes for a given number of children, the State department immediately cables the American embassy at London clearance on that number of visas.

Airport Defenses For Pennsylvania Are Discussed

Legislative Committee Consults With Chief Of Army Air Corps

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 9.—Pennsylvania's four-man legislative committee named to investigate the commonwealth's airport defenses was in Washington today consulting with Major General H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps.

The quartet composed of Representatives E. Kent Kane, McKean, chairman; David N. Denman, Westmoreland; Ray E. Taylor, Dauphin, and Elmer Kilroy, Philadelphia, have been making a survey of the state's landing fields for the past four weeks in reference to commonwealth defense.

Kane, whose motion for the committee was passed in the waning moments of the special legislative session last May, declared that before the committee presents its report and recomendations to Gov Arthur H. James tomorrow, he hopes it will have an opportunity to consult with Major General Edward Martin, adjutant general of Pennsylvania, and Lieutenant Colonel J. V. Dallin, director of Philadelphia municipal airport.

Emphasizing the need for "many small airports" in the state, Kane said that advice given by W. T. Piper, head of an airplane plant at Lock Haven, and Lieutenant Colonel Albert H. Stackpole, of Harrisburg, commander of the 104th Cavalry, had been extremely helpful.

British Open Fire On Big French Ship To Prevent Germans Getting It

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

LONDON, July 9.—Hon. A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, revealed this afternoon that the largest of French battleships, the Richelieu, which was attacked by British battleships, was at Dakar, capital of French West Africa.

The disclosure was made in the house of commons.

Alexander revealed that after the French commander failed to reply to the British conditions, the Richelieu was attacked yesterday.

A daring feat of British seamanship lay behind the admiralty lord's words when he disclosed that the Richelieu's propellors and steering apparatus were damaged by depth bombs dropped close under the French vessel's stern by a British war craft.

French Fail To Reply

Alexander reported that after the commander of the largest French battleship afloat had failed to reply to the British conditions, the Richelieu was attacked yesterday to prevent her from falling into German hands.

Alexander disclosed that a speedy motorboat swept up under the very stern of the French warship and dropped depth charges, damaging the Richelieu's propellors and steering gear.

Simultaneously, British torpedo planes zoomed down upon the big battleship and launched their missels.

All the attacking British air and sea craft returned safely, Alexander reported.

The Richelieu was last seen listing badly to the port side and settling in the stern, he declared.

"In accordance with the decisions announced by the prime minister (Winston Churchill) on July 4, His Majesty's government decided steps must be taken to ensure that the Richelieu, the most formidable and most modern capital ship in the world, must not fall into enemy

May Register 350,000 Aliens In Pennsylvania

Registration To Start In Fall

New Federal Law To Become Effective On September 1

POST OFFICES WILL HANDLE BIG TASK

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, July 9—As many as 350,000 Pennsylvanians may have to register with the federal government and have their fingerprints taken under the recent enacted alien registration law, it was estimated here today.

That was the esimate made by William R. Douglas, director of the state alien registration bureau. Another estimate made by the state department of public instruction placed the number of aliens in the state at 131,914, according to a census taken by school authorities a few years ago.

Begins September

Aliens will have four months in which to register, beginning September 1. Registrations will be made at local postoffices.

It was understood that in addition to registering and having their fingerprints taken, aliens will be required to supply certain pertinent information to a questionnaire which the federal department of justice is now drawing up. Aliens who fail to register may be deported.

Douglas said his bureau, which was set up to administer the invalidated state alien registration law does not expect to take part in the federal registration drive. Considerable information in its possession has been turned over, however, to the federal authorities.

Governor James disclosed yesterday that agents of the federal bureau of investigation have already contacted state officials and he pledged the state's cooperation in carrying out the law.

State officials felt that the postoffice department personnel in Pennsylvania would find itself taxed by the registration job and that additional help would have to be employed to handle the task.

chamber, asked the deputies to confirm their confidence in Premier Petain. Laval told the deputies:

"The mismortune brought upon us by the wantonness of those who dragged us into war imposes a sacred duty to safeguard the leadership of France.

"Therefore I urge parliament to grant the necessary means and unanimously confirm confidence in Marshal Petain."

To Investigate

This was followed by unanimous approval of the resolution requesting the government to undertake immediate investigation of those responsible for cause and conduct of the war from political, civil and military angles, and to investigate also responsibility for France's insufficient supply of war materials.

The resolution said this inquiry should be carried out with "intent to secure appropriate expiation."

The resolution as presented to the chamber by Laval contained this powerful enabling article:

"The national assembly grants to the government of the republic represented by Premier Petain, all powers to decree a new French constitution.

"The constitution shall guarantee the rights of labor, the family and the country and will be ratified by the assembly, which will be its author."

Three-Man Cabinet

Following approval of the constitutional change by both the chamber and the senate, the proposal will be submitted as a whole to the national assembly.

The new French government will be based closely on those of Europe's present totalitarian states, and is expected to consist of a three-man cabinet with Petain as chairman and leader.

Plans for changing the constitution were approved at a meeting of the cabinet council, presided over by President Albert Lebrun.

In the proposed set-up, it is expected, General Maxime Weygand, Laval and former Labor Minister Adrian Marquet will govern the nation.

highways in the county, was discussed and came in for some severe criticism. It was charged that the two foot berm without being blacktopped would result in a dangerous condition, that in its present shape it was a waste of money and it was decided to protest to I. Lamont Hughes, secretary of highways.

"Some months ago" said President Paul A. Keeley, "this association presented a petition to the highway department asking that 422 be widened through Lawrence County. The road is heavily trafficked, is being widened west of the Ohio line and east of Lawrence County and the result was to make the stretch through this county a bottle neck.

Needs Blacktop

"That petition was signed by hundreds of Lawrence County residents and in addition endorsements of city council, county commissioners and civic bodies were added to it. In reply to our protest the secretary of highways said that it was planned to widen the road two feet on side and we understood it was to be blacktopped and the curves half mooned. Instead some stone has been laid and already cars and trucks slipping off the side are breaking it up. By next summer the wind and weather will have added to the deterioration and the work will be more than useless. We protest the waste of money in putting this stone down in the shape it is and expect to protest it to the highway department."

Offers Services

Another matter taken up was the present national defense plans. A letter was authorized sent to the Secretary of War offering the services and equipment of the chapter to the government when and if they are needed.

"Just now the government is asking the citizens to aid in the defense plans by paying additional taxes" said the letter. "The time may come when something more than money will be needed. When and if that time comes, the Lawrence County chapter will co-operate with the government to the fullest extent. Transportation is one of the vital arms of national defense and this chapter expects to do its share no matter when it is asked."

A report of the recent state convention at Conneaut Lake was made by Harry L. Gormley who was the general chairman of the affair.

A memorable occasion, the 15th anniversary of the ordination of Rev. Fr. Leo S. Watterson, of St. Mary's, was observed Monday with a solemn high mass being celebrated in St. Mary's church. The event also marked the third reunion for the ordination class.

Announcement of Martin's appointment followed a breakfast conference between the GOP candidate and a subcommittee of the Republican national committee designated to consider the question of campaign and committee leadership with Willkie.

Martin who is 55 years old generally is regarded as the man who "put the GOP back on the map in 1938."

In that year's election campaign he directed the Republican congressional campaign committee activities which resulted in seizure of 80 seats in the predominantly democratic house.

At the same time Willkie disclosed that Russell Davenport, New York editor, would serve as his personal representative.

Willkie emphasized that Martin will serve without pay and he also revealed that since Philadelphia he had worked unceasingly on the Bay State congressman to take the post of either campaign manager, national chairman or both.

ANGLO-GERMAN AERIAL WARFARE MUCH INTENSIFIED

it clear that Royal Air Force planes are striking back at Germany with mighty blows.

Raids On Germany

They said some of the greatest raids on any 24-hour period in the entire war were carried out by the R. A. F. over the week end. These attacks penetrated deep into Germany, perhaps as far as Berlin, and from German-occupied Boulogne on the French channel coast north along the entire coastline.

Soaring 300 miles into central Germany, it was claimed, the British bombers successfully attacked vital military objectives, dropping bombs which left behind a trail of fires.

Air circles asknowledged the importance of these raids, "not only in the number of planes used and bombs dropped, but in the strategic damage known to have been inflicted."

"Undoubtedly," they said, "It was a red-letter week end for the R. A. F."

(A British radio broadcast picked up by the Columbia Broadcasting System in New York said the Bremen, Karlunborg and Hamburg radio stations went silent shortly after midnight and that the Stuttgart radio "also stopped suddenly.")

The London Daily Telegram said that German losses in the air since the war began amounted to 4,000 planes, not including aircraft lost in the Polish campaign, but including 115 lost through yesterday in attacks against England.

Britain's share of victories over German planes amounted to 2,500, the paper said.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that British naval units yesterday successfully attacked the new 35,000-ton Richelieu, France's largest battleship, in continued operations to prevent important French fleet units from falling into German hands.

DOG LAW VIOLATED, CHARGE

Because he let his dog roam without the required license, a new Castle R. F. D. 6 man was haled before Justice of the Peace John T. Brinton today by Howard E. McLure, state dog law enforcement officer. A hearing was set for July 17.

ADMIRALTY HEAD TELLS OF ATTACK ON FRENCH SHIP

hands in any condition in which it might be used against us," Alexander explained.

"Force accordingly was dispatched to Dakar in order to present to the French admirals similar proposals to those offered at Oran.

Communicate By Signal

"Arriving in the vicinity a British sloop was told it would be fired upon if it approached closer. Finally, the French agreed to receive communications by signal.

"No satisfactory reply was received within the time limit, but the British flag officer waited still longer before carrying out his orders to use force.

"Finally it became clear the French did not propose to accede to any of the British suggestions and the officer had no alternative but to carry out his painful duty in the early hours of July 8.

"A ship's boat was sent into the harbor with depth charges. With great daring it passed the boom defenses and went alongside the port quarter of the Richelieu and dropped its depth charges near the stern in order to damage the propellors and steering gear. Then it immediately withdrew.

Makes Escape

"While still in the harbor, the boat's engines broke down and it lay helpless for a time. The crew succeeded in restarting one engine just as their presence was discovered.

"The tiny boat was pursued but it managed to escape by crossing the harbor (anti-submarine) defense nets in which its pursuers became fouled."

Alexander was lavish in his praise of this gallant boat's crew, pointing out that throughout the entire daring maneuver they ran the risk of blowing themselves up.

"In the main, however, the attack was entrusted to the aircraft of the fleet arm which occurred afterwards," Alexander resumed.

"These aircraft were successful with torpedoes, a number of which hit the Richelieu.

"The small motorboat, which still was in the harbor, witnessed the aircraft attack. The crew heard five explosions and saw smoke issuing from the battleship.

Has List To Port

"Air reconnaissance since carried out established that the Richelieu has a list to the port side and is down by the stern. A large quantity of fuel oil covers the water round the ship.

"Our motorboat and all our aircraft returned safely despite the heavy anti-aircraft fire."

Assessing the results of the engagements at Dakar, Oran and other "painful" actions, Alexander congratulated the British navy and added:

"I need not emphasize that transfer of this powerful, modern capital fleet (of French war vessels) to the enemy would have altered the balance of naval strengths with incalculable results to ourselves.

"It is the greatest achievement of its kind in the history of naval operations and a remarkable tribute to the value of our sea power—power which we do not intend to lose.

"We intend to prevent a sea-borne invasion of this island or the escape of any marauders daring to set foot here."

The admiralty lord's statement drew cheers from the packed house, and there were bursts of laughter as he related the heroic episode of the tiny motorboat.

Alexander said Britain is carefully watching the cruisers still under control of the French, and also is pondering the question of the remaining large French capital ship, the Jean Bart.

He refused to divulge where the Jean Bart is lying at present.

JAPAN AFTER THREE YEARS OF WAR

FOR decades almost any observer was willing to agree that the Japanese people had a great world future ahead of them. They are industrious and capable. They were building up a fine merchant marine. They were adapting the industrial age to their Island Empire.

Three years ago Japan started her war of aggression against China. Now, beginning a fourth year of that struggle, it is plain that in that vast land she has gotten nowhere fast. The Chinese have suffered and died, but millions live to fight on. Resistance to Japanese inroads appears from time to time to weaken, then strangely is renewed.

For years Japan has been turned into an enormous arsenal and navy yard. All the productive abilities of her people have been turned to the purposes of war. And all they could give in man power, guns, tanks, airplanes and ammunition has been poured into a bottomless pit. The Japanese have gone hungry. Now, it is explained to them, they must be hungrier still; they must tighten their belts.

Yet they are almost as far from the "New Order in East Asia" as they were three years ago, in spite of the apparently golden opportunities offered by the war in Europe to grab right and left in the Pacific, because in China they have a bear by the tail and if they let go to try any other grabs they invite incalculably dangerous consequences.

Ruthless militarism, which swept away all vestiges of real Japanese statesmanship, has played Japan false. Her "New Order" thus far only means bankruptcy, hunger and a future full of danger and further suffering for the Japanese people.

ANOTHER CAMPAIGN CHANGE NEARS

It is almost certain that by the time another presidential election rolls around, wide circles of voters will not only read about the candidates in the papers, hear their voices on the air, but see them in action via television.

Much speculation is now aroused over the possible effect of this on political campaigns. For to all the many talents now required by high political aspiration will be added the ability to "mug" convincingly while speaking or campaigning.

One thing this may do: It may shorten the time needed for a political campaign. In former days it took many months to acquaint the public with a rising political figure. Now all this can be done in weeks. His record is already quickly available through the daily papers. His voice now follows you into your living room. Soon his every characteristic gesture, a quick smile, a hand run through the hair, a habit of blowing cigaret smoke out the ears, will become evernight a commonplace to every television-conscious home.

We will become more quickly acquainted with our public figures. But there is also a danger that we will tire of them sooner, too.

NO MORE BOONDOGGLING

There have been noticeable developments in respect to financing the vastly costly national defense program. First, it is widely urged that the pay-as-you-go plan be followed as much as possible, even though heavy tax increases prove necessary.

Second, there is general demand that all other government expenditures be drastically reduced—and that non-essential bureaus and departments be entirely eliminated.

There never was a time when businesslike planning of the affairs of government was more necessary to the national welfare. No longer can we afford boondoggling. No longer can we afford the old log-rolling practice, whereby congressmen and senators are virtually forced to vote for unnecessary expenditures in return for promises that other congressmen and senators will approve pet expenditures for their districts. No longer can we afford "experiments" which disrupt industry and labor.

The American people are ready to make great sacrifices. They will pay every cent necessary for defense without grumbling. But they are going to insist that every cent goes for an essential rather than a political purpose. They are going to demand that their sacrifices are not in vain. They want real statesmanship, motivated by high patriotism, irrespective of party labels, and they do not want local short-sightedness and selfishness.

DOING IT THE EASY WAY

Success of the Willkie nomination drive on the sixth ballot of an unbossed convention is having the same impact on political strategy as collapse of the Maginot line—and for the same reason.

Politicians have been forced to admit what soldiers have been learning, that the best defense is a whale of a good offense. The candidates who put faith in fortresses of delegates and cunningly devised tank traps to catch the opposition were routed by a whirl-wind salient driven with lightning speed through their fortified areas by an opponent who simply refused to be discouraged.

Entirely aside from Mr. Willkie's personal significance, the tactics he used are of great significance to political technique. They seem to have delivered a death blow to the primary method. They have demonstrated that even the publicity value of the presidential primary, which has been about the only excuse for continuing it, is slight. They have further reduced the importance of party bosses and enhanced the importance of delegates to national conventions.

The Willkie nomination has hit the old school of political managers where it hurts. They have lost face and influence, and what is more important they have lost confidence in their way of doing things. They have discovered, to their surprise, that a Maginot line isn't worth a hoot unless it impresses the opposition as deeply as it impresses them.

They would be less than human if it didn't occur to them that they have been trying to win votes and influence people the hard way.

France should remember that Czecho-Slovakia was also absorbed by Hitler in two installments.

There's one thing about the war. It has certainly made people quit talking about the depression.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

ADVICE ON BABY'S SLEEPING RULES

THE BABY should sleep in his own bed alone, also in his own room if possible. The ordinary laundry basket, properly padded, makes an ideal crib for the first few months Where there is only one bedroom in the home, he can be moved when the parents retire, into a living room or dining room. The crib with high sides over which the infant of a year or two cannot climb, and which he cannot jiggle loose, is desirable later up to the end of eighteen months or two years. Be sure the bars are very close together so the child cannot get its head through.

After two years, a very low cot into which the child can climb alone is best. The springs should be firm; stout canvas is better than springs; one without springs, even with boards, would be better than one whose springs easily sag. No one needs to be rich to have a fairly wholesome separate bed for baby.

The mattress should be firm and smooth. Have a rubber sheet which completely covers the mattress, and over it a quilted cotton pad to protect the child from the rubber sheet. Then over this a cotton sheet which tucks in well around the mattress. Remember that the rubber sheet may quickly deteriorate and allow the mattress to grow wet.

Not Too Warm

Also have small pads about 18 inches square, with small rubber sheets to match, to save frequent changes of large sheets and pads.

The wool blankets should be light and warm and large enough to tuck in under the mattress. A downy cotton comforter, very light and fluffy, will be better than heavy blankets. Most babies are covered too warm at night.

To keep the child from being wholly uncovered and to prevent thumb-sucking, a sleeping bag made of soft downy material, to enclose all the child but his head, with lots of room for wide, free movements of his hands and legs, is very desirable.

For the infant it is well to fasten covers with a large safety pin to the foot of the bed as well as to the sides near the foot. This to keep the child from pulling the covers over his head and face if struggling angrily alone.

Questions from mothers, nurses, children, teachers—anybody, are always welcome. I answer personally all letters from my readers, and do appreciate your thoughtfulness when you enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope when writing me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Do you advise spanking for a temper tantrum?

A. Usually not. But if you can be on hand at the first or very early expression of violent rage in your child who, let us say, is stiffening, holding his breath, or stamping his feet, several quick sharp smacks will work like magic. One such treatment served as a permanent cure of one of our children—the first and last real temper tantrum he ever had.

Q. Suppose your child in his

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

CONCERNING "JINGLES"

"I thnk that I shall never see
A hazard tougher than a tree—
A tree o'er which my ball must fly
If on the green it is to lie;
A tree whose leafy arms extend
To kill the mashie shot I send;
A tree that stands in silence there
While angry golfers rage and swear.
Niblicks are made for fools like me,
Who cannot even miss a tree."

ANON.

To fully appreciate the thoughts expressed in the above rhyme, you must either be a golfer or become one and being or having become a golfer, you must play a game of golf known to many New Castle golfers as the "Jingle" Game.

A "jingle" in golfer's language is five cents. Of course, the golfer might make it ten cents or any multiple of five cents, but the real "Jingle" Game is a five-cent game. It is played thusly in case you have not been introduced to the game.

Four players are out to play. If the golf course is not crowded, it is possible, there being others who wish to join the game, to increase the number. The more the merrier. You must have a goodly supply of nickels in your pocket when you start and the game progresses. The first man who drives the ball out of bounds, pays every other player a nickel,—a jingle, if you will. That is the penalty. If the player's ball is lodged in an artificial trap or in a brook, that player likewise contributes a jingle to each of the players. If the player reaches the green safely but takes three strokes thereafter before he holes the ball, he is penalized a jingle. Contrariwise, if a player plays and wins a hole, everyone contributes to him a jingle. If he plays the hole in one less stroke than the par of that hole he receives two jingles from each player. The golf course may be studded with many trees. The New Castle Field Club has a great many trees and these trees seem to be located in places diabolically contrived to interfere with the player's shot either from the tee or from the fairway. These trees constitute the great hazard in a "Jingle" Game, and if you hit a tree or a leaf on a tree—and believe me, the players are very observant—you pay your companions each a jingle. I think that the writer of the jingle at the head of this column must have played a "Jingle" Game and must have found the trees very expensive.

There is one other rather important consideration in this game. There are always on every golf course some holes which Old Man Par says must be played in three;

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:33; sun rises tomorrow 4:37.

Those birds who belong to organizations whose object is the overthrow of the government of the United States should be given a short shift—the shorter the quicker.

Mr. Willkie is a very wise man. He is for the newspapers. He knows what can do him real service.

A woman, we are told by one of these inspirational writers, can rule any situation. But someone rises to inquire what she would do if she was entertaining the bridge club and Junior busted in to say Mrs. Jones next door wants to know if there are plenty of cups, saucers and silverware and if there isn't she'll be glad to lend a few more.

A local man was bragging to a friend that his wife never bragged about her making a man out of him. The friend replied "But more than once I've heard her say she did her darndest."

Then there is the little story about the boy who came home proudly with a prize he had won for excellence in his studies.

"What did you win this for?" asked mother.

"Teacher asked how many legs there were on a penguin," replied the boy. "I said there were three."

"But that isn't right," objected mother. "It has only two legs."

"I know that now," said the boy. "But all the others said four and I won because I came closest."

TODAY'S STORYETTE

The boy was probably mentally deficient and an examination was indicated .

"How many ears has a cat?" queried the psychologist.

"Two," replied the lad instantly.

"And how many eyes has a cat."

"Two."

"And how many legs has a cat?"

"Say, Doc," asked the boy, "didn't you ever see a cat?"

Will we never wake up? To think that Congressional appropriations will arm us is childish. We must suffer, as the Germans did—work harder, make less, do without.

The smear is already being flung at Willkie by the big Dams in Washington. Smear isn't going to win this time. We have been hearing nothing else for nearly eight years. Facts and ability are the things that are going to count.

Telling a little boy to act like a man when he has a pain isn't unreasonable. A man howls.

There are many kinds of dope peddlers. Some only have to talk when they peddle their dope.

It looks as if some of the movie actresses are trying for the title "Queen of the Takeoff".

A noted Philadelphia newspaper publisher was sentenced to three years in the coop for evading $1,217,296 in taxes on his 1936 income. Wonder how he ever made that much money?

It was up under the northern lights. The young Eskimo bustled up to the igloo of his loved one.

"Sweetheart," he said. "What would you think if I told you that I had shoved my dog team for 100 miles today just to come and tell you how much I adore you?"

'I'd say that was a lot of mush," said the girl.

A man was smoking a cigar and he was one who had not smoked for a long time. He was asked if some friend gave him the cigar. He replied "can't tell yet".

Most everything comes to those who live long enough. We never expected to own a brief case, but we finally had one given to us.

Describing the difference between caution and cowardice, a high school boy put it this way: "When I'm scared, it's caution. When the other fellow's scared, he's a coward."

The American people are now ready to listen. That's sumpin'.

The somewhat illiterate young man was professing his love to the girl friend. "Do you really love me, dear," cooed the girl. "You're one girl I don't like any other no better than," he replied.

MADE THE BEST OF IT

And here comes that old one about somebody breaking into a country newspaper office and stealing the letter "s" from the type cases. The editor made this explanation:

"LOTH OR THOLEN—Lath night thome darned rathcal broke into the print thop and thole all of the letter eth, you know, the letter between the 'r' and 't'. It maketh uth tho thore to think that thome jackath would treat uth that way, howinll doth he expect uth to print Ithabel County Liner without the letter eth. If we ever catch him, he will thure get the theat of hith panth kicked.

Good Taste

Pat. U. S. Patent Office

"That's one great thing about Marge—she never has to use crimpers or messes to daub onto her face like my sisters do."

Thus did an admiring husband praise his wife to me last evening. But little does he know Marge. She is too clever to ever let him see her in the course of rejuvenation and beautification. Her crimpers and facial creams and all such aids of beauty are kept carefully locked away in one of those tin make-up boxes that actresses carry with them on their travels. Before she unlocks this box she locks her bathroom door with herself ensconsed inside. Her crimpers are never put on when he is home or when there is any chance of his coming home. And none of these things are ever used in the presence of anyone who might tell him or his relatives or friends about them as scrupulously as she will her removable bridges when she has to wear them. And all of this sly deception and hidden conduct on Marge's part results from her innate cleverness. By instinct, she knows the art of holding a husband and hiding her weaknesses not only from him but from her relatives, friends and acquaintances.

Readers' Questions Answered

Question: When a bride has previously thanked donors for wedding gifts must she write notes to them also?—Mary.

Answer: She should send "thank you" notes for wedding gifts, even though she has personally thanked the donors. In fact these notes notes should be sent immediately upon receipt of the gifts before she has had time to see the donors to thank them.

Question: Is it proper when writing to an intimate friend, to use scented stationery?—W. W.

Answer: Never use scented paper regardless of whom you write to. avoid the use of or oddly-shaped, fancy papers and those of conspicuous colors. Choose conservative styles and shades and you will know that you are displaying good taste.

Question: I am having four bridesmaids. Is it correct for me to have only two ushers?—B. B.

Answer: It is correct, but you will have a prettier wedding if you have an equal number of ushers and bridesmaids in your wedding party.

Tomorrow—Library Suggestion

All the Republicans have to do is to prove to the voters the waste and inefficiency in Washington. That can be done easily.

A young chap was asked by a golf playing lawyer in court if he knew the nature of an oath. The boy replied. "I have been caddying for you for a long time."

There is a great boom in the flag business now. It takes a big scare often to get people to gallop for a flag.

SILVERY HINT

Flossie Fernfrill got stuck with a very boresome young man the other evening. Yawning from time to time did no good.

"If you had money what would you do?" she asked finally.

"Money? If I had money I'd travel," he replied.

Flossie's hand stole into his. The young man, amazed but pleased at the thought of amorous conquest, relaxed and sighed. Then he felt something cold in his hand.

He opened it, and on his palm lay a shiny 10-cent piece.

It don't happen here. "Breathes there a man so full of life he plays practical jokes on his own wife."

An Ohio man over 100 years old declares he never tasted water. He drinks nothing but home-made wine. It's a wonder it hasn't killed him long ago if the wine is like most home made stuff.

PRECOCIOUS LAD

Then there is this talk about the way youngsters catch on to what's happening in the grown-up world.

At school in the grammer class the teacher singled out young Donald.

"Tell me what it is, Donald, when I say 'I love you, you love me, he loves me'" she instructed.

"Sure," said Donald. "That's one of them there triangles when me or him is liable to get shot and you might get hit, too."

Flossie Fernfrill is pretty used to feminine dumbness after listening to some of her ornamental operators in the beauty shoppe. Only yesterday one of them said a racketeer is a tennis professional.

I have come to the conclusion that there is no great hurry about winning fame and wealth and ease. I am beginning to learn that the pinnacle of success is only a point from which the attainer looks back and sighs for the wonderful days when he had to struggle and fight and wrestle for the bread he ate.

Taking it from those who should know, the struggling days are the best days. So why should anybody wish them to end?—Handed in.

A hick town is a place where other ladies enjoy life more because the richest man's upitty wife is so fat.

Speaking of another kind of mush reminds us of food and food reminds us of chicken and chicken reminds us of a little story.

"My nephew ate some chicken the other day," said the uncle.

"Croquette?"

"Not at all. He's much too husky to let that get him down."

"More clothes," grumbled the West Side man. "Where the dickens do you think I'm going to get the money to pay for them?" Sometimes," said the wife, sweetly, "I'm not a bit inquisitive".

GENTLE ANYWAY

Mr. Smith was very ill and the doctor was called. He examined the sick man closely and then called Mrs. Smith aside

"I don't like the looks of your husband at all," said the medico.

"To tell you the truth I never have either" she said. "But I have always found him very considerate and he's been awfully nice to the children."

What's What At A Glance

Cultivate South American Friendship
Diplomacy Needed In Handling Affair
United States Ready To Aid Nations

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Due to war conditions (and what we foresee as post-war conditions), Uncle Sam is doing his darnedness just now to cement friendly relations throughout the Pan Americas.

It's working fairly well.

The other day news dispatches told us a delightful little story from Montevideo capital of the republic of Uruguay, at the mouth of the Rio de la Plata, South America.

It was to the effect that the Yankee cruiser Quincy, on a series of "good-will" visits to Latin-American ports, had been most cordially received at "Monty," as the Latins abbreviate its designation. Uruguayan Foreign Minister Alberto Guani, it seems, gave a luncheon to Capt. William C. Wickham and officers of the Quincy, and U. S. Minister Edwin Wilson made a speech to the luncheoneers.

The purport of this speech was that Uncle Sam is on the job to prevent Hitlerism or Mussolini-ism from doing any Trojan horse-ism in Latin America.

It's been advertised that European totalitarianism has been bothersome recently in South America, and it's mentioned as having been especially troublesome in Uruguay, which, as an exceedingly small republic, perhaps can't resist such interference competently.

To be sure, Uruguay and the other Latin Americas have fought bunds, silver shirts, et cetera as vigorously as we have. They've canned totalitarian propagandists out of their various republics.

Absolutely New-Worldly

None of them can be suspected today of any trend anti-New Worldly.

Uncle Sam recognizes this. All he says is that he's on the job to help 'em.

Do they want his help, though?

Butting into their affairs is something like monkeying with a buzz-saw.

They don't like the "Colossus of the North" butting into their local hemispherical funerals.

There was a Iatin-American case of this during the last World war.

When Uncle Sam entered that war, President Wilson took it for granted that all Latin America was with him.

He was only partly right. Some of Latin America preferred to remain neutral.

Woodrow saw fit to coerce 'em.

He sent a squadron of four U. S. cruisers under Admiral Caperton on a series of so-called good-will visits to all Pan-American ports to demonstrate New World solidarity.

To prove his case he violated several neutralities. I was living in a neutral Latin America at the time—capital, Buenos Aires, Argentine Republic. Caperton put in and stayed for two weeks, when entitled, under international law, to only 48 hours. I myself resented it. Latin America was cuckoo. Any country would be.

Pretty Sociable

Now, at this time, the Americas are pretty sociable.

The Latin republics are afflicted with a number of local totalitarianisms in their various midsts and undoubtedly they annoy 'em, but they're dealing with them quite formidably.

If the United States butts in, it needs to do so very discretely.

A little case like Uruguay's doesn't prove anything.

It isn't that Latin America is totalitarian. It is that Latin America is "pro" attending to its own business.

Little Uruguay may be acquiescent, but, generally speaking Latin America can be overdone very easily.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

CHICAGO — Former Governor Philip F. LaFollette calls for sacrifices for national defense:

"We cannot buy national defense. We shall have to sweat and toil for it."

NEW YORK — Assemblyman Robert F. Wagner, Jr., urges a fair deal for aliens:

"It is simple to suspect every foreigner of being a fifth columnist but by such indiscriminate suspicion we impose on the innocent and let the guilty go free."

WASHINGTON — Solicitor General Francis Biddle expresses confidence in the patriotism of America's foreign born:

"I think there is little doubt that most of the several million aliens in the United States are people who believe sincerely in the principles of American democracy."

ASHEVILLE, N. C.—Dr. Minnie L. Maffett, president of the national federation of business and professional women's clubs, pleads for national unity:

"Intolerance and internal conflict are but the stepping stones to totalitarian government."

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1940 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Addressing graduates at Syracuse University the other day, Owen D. Young, former chief of General Electric, declared that civilization will not break down in spite of the present strain. Civilization is a tough old bird, Mr. Young asserted:

"She has dipped and soared throughout human history, but even in stormy weather, she always has found a haven for a nest and produced progeny to maintain and advance her kind. Unless I mistake you—meaning the people—America will still shelter her."

The agony of Europe which pierces to the heart of America, which calls for all of our sympathy, all the material aid that we can give, illustrates as nothing else could do that there is still a land where peace lives, and freedom, and democracy. It has been said that it is a duty, a national responsibility, indeed, for Americans to preserve all possible cheerfulness these days, for gloom and depression over here cannot help the anguished and distressed over there.

And one of the best ways, it has been suggested, is to go out and see the country you live in—for a week even, or a fortnight, or a month. Drop workaday cares, forget the diplomats and the politicians. Forget, if you can, war, if only for a little while. Refresh your soul. Pack up your swimming suit, your hiking shoes, your camera; fill up the gas-tank of your car and, with the morning sun in your eyes, take to the open road.

Wherever you may go, now that July is here, there is an irresistible harmony in the song of the open road, calling the weary and the troubled of heart out into this country of yours, to rediscover the peace and the freedom, the beauty and the magnificence of the land we live in.

For the motorist, America is the vacationer's paradise. Nowhere in the world are there so many broad, smooth highways leading on and on and on to strange and beautiful and intriguing places. Nowhere do the highways call so insistently, or those little, charming, idlying by-roads. There you will meet the real America, discover new beauties, new people, new pleasures.

Go in July when the daisies are glowing in the fields. Go in midsummer when the buttercups dance along the meadows and the white clover perfumes the day and night. Go out into America and know the land of liberty still. Go to the glorious woods and the beaches. Go to hills and refresh your soul. See your own national capital and the tomb of Lincoln. Soothe your troubled mind among the pines, the little blue lakes, the rolling hills and the gentle valleys. See with your own eyes, the beauty, the immensity, the richness, the goodness, the friendless of the land where democracy can still hold up her head. The open road is calling. Go out and see America.

in other words, the players are expected to reach the green in one stroke from the tee and here is where the great golfer shines in a "Jingle" Game, for he may earn a jingle from each of the players by reaching the green and his ball be the ball nearest to the hole in that green, that earns for him two jingles from his companions. This jingle is called a "Bob", and if he can hoe that putt, thus making a "birdie," he earns two more jingles from each of the players,—a very profitable hole.

Parking Fee Is Eliminated At Cascade Park

Action Taken At Meeting Of Park Board And City Council

It was decided at a meeting of City Council and the Park Commission, on Monday, that parking charge for automobiles be eliminated at Cascade Park, effective immediately. On busy days, the Park Commission will furnish help to care for parking of cars.

The Park Commission made an inspection tour of the Park, and was well pleased with the improvements that have been made at the swimming pool, restaurant, community hall, other buildings and grounds.

Superintendent C. C. Coulthard states that Monday was the first big "kiddies day" in the park, when the swimming privileges at the pool, and the rides on the "Merry Go Round" and "Dodge 'Em", are reduced to 3c, from 12:30 to 5:00 p. m. every Monday. With the weather ideal, 575 kiddies availed themselves of this splendid opportunity for a swim. About 500 persons were in the pool Sunday.

The Community Hall, in which religious services was held on Sunday evening, was crowded to capacity.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

early teens were to tell you he did not believe in the religous things you taught him.

A. I should try to keep perfectly calm and companionable, letting him say to me what he liked about his beliefs. I wouldn't preach to him or argue with him. I would try harder to win his esteem the next several months and to make my religion or philosophy of life so attractive by the way I lived in the home that he might be attracted to it and choose it as his own. But if I failed I still would try harder to earn his esteem.

Q. When I walk down the street with my four-year-old baby, and meet a friend on the way, this child will not talk to the friend, but merely chews her fingers and hangs her head. I am so embarrassed. Please help me.

A. You are embarrassed? What about the poor child? She is so over come with embarrassment that her whole speech apparatus is paralyzed. She is speechless because of fear not because of orneriness, as you suppose. As soon as you understand the little tyke, you no longer will be embarrassed over her shyness; you will be sorry for her and ashamed of yourself. Then, instead of urging her to talk next time to strangers, you will divert the stranger from annoying her. As this little child feels more secure emotionally, her fears will subside, and eventually she may volunteer to talk.

STATE EXPANDS MACHINE TOOL WORK

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 9.—With the nation expanding its national defense, Pennsylvania's machine tool industry, ranking fifth nationally, was preparing today to play an important role in the defense program.

According to a survey by the state planning board, machine-tool accessories and machinists' precision tools in Pennsylvania represents a $25,000,000 enterprise, employing more than 5000 persons.

Machine tools, as explained by the U. S. Tariff Act of 1922, are "any machine operating other than by hand power which employs a tool for work on metal."

POSSIBLE NEXT FIRST LADY PASSES "SPOTLIGHT" TEST BUT PREFERS BACKGROUND

Will she be the next First Lady?

By MALVINA STEPHENSON
Central Press Writer

NEW YORK, July 9—Tennessee born Edith Wilk Willkie, who grew up on Indiana politics, may be "adopted" by the entire nation come next November.

And the wife of the Republican presidential nominee shares some of her husband's lucky confidence in their prospects. But she is naturally modest, almost shy and has an appealing way.

Sometimes Mrs. Willkie lets it slip—about what she "will do," as the next First Lady, but quickly appends the qualifying "if."

Never an ambitious social or political figure, Mrs. Willkie has preferred the background, making a comfortable home for her husband and only son Philip, a Princeton senior.

But suddenly propelled into the spotlight, Mrs. Willkie knows how to hold her own, and definitely can be counted an asset in her husband's political bid. Willkie advisors acted wisely in urging the "little missus" to make an early appearance at the Philadelphia convention.

Has Ready Answers

Under a heavy fire of press questions, marked by the confusion of flashing cameras, Mrs. Willkie always is ready with an answer and one that makes good copy. She has the knack of witty comebacks and clever phraseology.

But expect no personal thrusts, or even inuendoes, if Mrs. Willkie's "take-off" is any indication. Questions obviously directed at the cusrent First Lady were gracefully hurdled by Mrs. Willkie.

Asked if she considered travel, writing or speaking in the interest of social or political questions within the province of the First Lady Mrs. Willkie responded simply, "Yes, if she can do it."

But obviously the feminine-appearing Mrs. Willkie, whom her husband calls a "ball of fluff," doesn't care to try her hand at columns or speaking junkets. She never made a formal speech in her life, and doesn't intend to. She lets her husband wear the family pants and do the "heavy" jobs.

"I married Mr. Willkie because I thought he was bigger than I, in every way," she explains proudly.

Small Statured

Of course, Mrs. Willkie is only five feet, two and one-half inches in her stocking feet and weighed 110 pounds "before the convention." She kept up a fast pace every day, but insisted on an inconspicuous spot to take in the sessions. But she couldn't keep the tally on the dramatic night because she lost her "spectacles."

Close beside Mrs. Willkie in these trying times was her old friend, Mary Sleeth, the plain-looking spinster, who was the Rushville, Ind., librarian when the candidate's wife was assistant.

Although Indiana may be counted Mrs. Willkie's home state, she was born in Nashville, Tenn., where her father was a construction contractor. When she was seven the family returned to Indiana.

She attended the University of Indiana, and was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta. Although the two were students at the same time, the couple did not meet until several years later. She had known Paul V. McNutt there, however.

Strangely enough, Miss Wilk and Mr. Willkie both had very colorful and widely known campus nicknames. She was called "Billikan" Wilk and he "Win" Willkie, the latter a very prophetic label.

Worked In Libraries

Returning to Rushville, the former Edith Wilk got started in library work, thanks to Miss Sleeth, who now manages the Willkie farm in Rush county, Ind. Later Mrs. Willkie, was librarian at Elwood, Ind.

She met her future husband when the two were attendants at a wedding and friends were amused at the similarity of their names.

And the couple soon found other common ties. Mrs. Willkie's reading interest matched that of her husband, whose amazing fund of information has been demonstrated in his recent public appearances. At any rate, the two hit it off from the start and she soon agreed to change Wilk to Willkie.

While Willkie served as a soldier in the World War, his wife lived with her mother and sister-in-law in Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Miller Hamilton. When he returned the couple went to Akron, O., to make their home. A few years later found them in New York and Willkie was fast on the rise in his meteoric career.

Live Unostentatiously

Although having a large income, the Willkie's have never indulged in ostentatious living and have shunned the social glitter. Their seven-room New York apartment is modestly but tastily furnished, something you might expect from a daughter of the middle west. There's simply nothing "moderne" nor overdone. The dining room seats only about eight people and the library is one of the most popular spots in the place.

Mrs. Willkie herself is particularly interested in art, especially portraits by the old Flemish painters. Her apartment is just across the street from the Metropolitan Art Museum and she frequently views exhibits.

Although Mrs. Willkie likes a husband on whose viewpoint she can rely, she still has a mind of her own. She belongs to the Presbyterian church, and her husband and son the Episcopalian. She's also a life-long Republican, and is pretty certain that she "didn't" vote for Rosevelt in 1932.

Willkie can count on his wife to meet the backfire of the Old Guard in the G. O. P.

Advocates United States Of Europe

Former Member Of German Cabinet Urges United States To Call Conference

(International News Service)

ALLENTOWN, July 9—Dr. F. Wilhelm Sollman, for 15 years a member of the German Reichstag and twice member of the Interior in the National Cabinet of Germany, told delegates to the Institute of International Relations meeting at Muhlenberg College the only solution for peace is universal Democracy.

"The only lasting solution to Europe's difficulties will come through a federation similar to that of the United States," Doctor Sollman declared.

Doctor Sollman, whose newspaper, the Rheinische Zeitung, has been suppressed three times under the Hitler rule for failure to comply with the totalitarian system, suggested the United States invite European rulers to consider such a plan and that Great Britain make this a war objective in an effort "to form a new Europe."

Attend Showing Of Sterling's New Film

Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Hart, and daughter, Nell Lee, of Sylvan Heights, and Emil Mancine, of Beckford street, were in Pittsburgh Monday where they attended the premier of "Manhattan Heart Beat," in which the former's son, Bill, "Robert Sterling" to the rest of the world, has the lead.

In pictures only a little more than a year, Bill has come rapidly to the top, and his many local friends are looking forward to stardom for the modest young local boy, who is making good in the movies in a big way.

School Directors Guests At Plant

Have Dinner And Make Inspection Of Power Plant At West Pittsburg

Members of the New Castle School Board were the guests of the Pennsylvania Power Company Monday night when an inspection trip through the power plant at West Fittsburg was made. The inspection included a dinner served in the assembly room of the plant.

Arriving at the plant about 6:15 the school directors and a few invited friends saw the new sprinkler system working. In mid-June the ten acres of lawns of the plant were seeded with grass seed and already a beautiful catch of grass is seen. A sprinkler system consisting of about 42 rotary sprinklers keeps the lawns moist and these sprinklers were turned on for the guests to see. They spray the lawns with 1,200 gallons of water per minute and with all of them going at once present a picture.

Following the dinner Louis B. Round, vice president and general manager of the company, described the operations of the new plant and was followed by John Michaels, chief enginer of the plant who spoke on the technical perfections of the equipment.

The guests then went through the plant, saw how power is produced and asked many questions.

Playground Heads Gather At Library

Miss Alice Joyce Talks On "Story Telling" And Presents Book List

Teachers of the various playgrounds and recreation centers of the city held a session Monday, in the public library. They were given a talk on "Story Telling," by Miss Alice Joyce, head of the boys and girls department of the institution.

As story telling is a part of the work of the teachers of these playgrounds, they were much interested to have their attention called to a number of books about story telling, and also a collection of stories. Following list, which was given to the teachers, is published in the hope that others may also find it useful:

"For The Story Teller."
"Story Telling Hour."
"How To Tell Stories To Children."
"Educating By Story Telling."
"A Manual of Stories."
"Telling Bible Stories."
"Story Telling, What To Tell and How To Tell It."
"Story Telling To Live Wire Boys."
"Art of the Story Teller."

In addition to these books on story telling, the library has a long list of story telling collections, containing many good stories for retelling to young people.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

MORE ABOUT QUIN RULES

Yesterday I told you of some of the rules the Dionne quintuplets have to govern their nursery in Callander. There are eight rules and I only discussed three of them.

The fourth rule is: "Never fight among ourselves". A very timely rule for the whole world, obviously. Sadly, only children seem to want it now.

It was Cecile who proposed that particular rule. She remembered her disgrace of a few weeks ago when she got into an argument with her sisters—very unusual for Cecile, usually the most courteous of the quins. In the heat of the argument, she sank her teeth into Marie's arm. Her punishment, of course, was isolation from her sisters, the worst punishment a quin ever suffers, and a very effective one, also, I can tell you.

"Never try to get even," is the fifth rule that is governing the Dafoe nursery these days. I hope they live up to this rule, for it can save them from some of the worst acts of men and women.

Marie was the sponsor and ardent supporter of rule six: "Never tell tales." Some time ago Marie thought Emilie had been mean to her, so she tried to get even by telling Nurse Leona Dubeau about a prank of her sister's. Her reward, however, was a reprimand for tale-bearing. Marie remembered the lesson, her sponsorship of this rule shows.

The seventh rule: "Offer things to one another", came from a suggestion made by Annette. I suppose it merely reiterates the first rule, "Always share things". Yet, it goes further and requires even more unselfishness. It means that the child doesn't wait until asked to share, but takes the initiative in the sharing.

The last resolution in the "code" is, "No crying, or sulking. No long faces." Yvonne contributed this. Naturally she would, for she is the one who comforts all the others when they are hurt, when they have grievances. She is the peacemaker.

As I have indicated, the quins were prompted to make these rules by personal experiences. That they, at six years of age, have such a code of conduct, shouldn't be surprising. Study children at play. Even though previously unacquainted, they very quickly adapt themselves to a set of rules of their own making. The nonconformist finds himself or herself unwelcome. Children are much more realistic in their social relations than adults. We elders manage to conceal our feelings when we don't like the conduct of a guest or host, but children will speak right out and say, "I don't like you," or "I don't want to play with you."

In large families there is unlikely to be a spoiled, unsocial youngster. The children themselves see to that with their self-adopted rules and means of enforcing them. When parents have only one child or two, it is very important for them to give the youngster or youngsters contacts with groups that will submit them to "the rules" in a manner much more effectively than parents can.

On Court House Hill

REALTY TRANSFERS

Matilda Penich to James V. Kalcic, Bessemer, $1.

Hannah G. Crawford estate to Myrtle M. Campbell, Third ward, $1.

Along with cigarettes, whiskey and theatre tickets, federal revenue stamps used on realty transfers have advanced ten percent. In the past the cost has been fifty cents for every $500 represented in the transfer, or $1 per thousand dollars. The new cost is fifty cents per five hundred or $1.10 per thousand.

Attorney Ezra Whitla of Cour d'Alene, Idaho, national committeeman for the Republican party from that state was a visitor in the court room of Judge W. Walter Braham Monday. Mr. Whitla is a second cousin of Mrs. Braham and has been in the east attending the national convention of the Republican party in Philadelphia.

He expected to return home immediately after the convention but was made a member of the steering committee of 12 which will map out the coming campaign. This necessitated his staying over for a week or more.

He left New Castle for Washington, D. C., Monday night, to confer with members of his committee. This year's campaign will be different than any previous in that it will be a three-way affair with the national committee directing it.

Mr. Whitla's father was a member of the first class to graduate from Westminster College.

Register and Recorder Orville Potter visited the Boy Scout camp Sunday afternoon in time to witness the rescue of a cow across the stream from the camp. The cow had walked into a bog to get some water and sank down too deep to extricate herself. Under the direction of Scout Executive John J. Finnissey the scouts got a rope and tieing it around the cow pulled her out.

A piece of equipment needed for the past twenty five years in the Register and Recorder's office has finally been installed. It is a plot rack in which will be kept the various plots of property. Heretofore they have been filed on the floor.

Deputy Sheriff Clyde M. Badger has gone to Canada where he intends cleaning out a couple of lakes of the fish living there. With Building Superintendent Clifford M. James on a fishing trip and Badger now gone there should be a lot of good fish, cheap, around the court house in about a week.

A short session of court was held Monday morning in which final accounts were received. Judges Braham and Dickey operated in the two court rooms, Judge Braham in number one and Judge Dickey in number two.

During the week ending July 6, 28 voters registered as Republicans in the permanent registration office, and 11 registered as Democrats. One registered as No Party. Two Democrats changed to Republican and one Republican changed to Democrat.

No bids were received Monday by the county commissioners for the purchase of one automobile for the sheriff's office. A bid for two water coolers for the court house was awarded to Schramm Company of Pittsburgh at its price of $435.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Countless thousands of Chinese live their lives on small boats.

More and more Americans are becoming trailer tenants.

These gasoline gypsies go south in winter, north in summer.

The trailer life may be gay and carefree.

But is it sanitary?

What do these motoring nomads do about fresh food and water?

More importantly, what do they do about garbage and waste?

That is what health authorities have been asking.

Many cities and towns have trailer camps.

Here sanitary facilities are available.

Some trailers are well equipped—others crude in accessories.

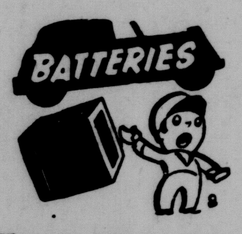

All highway homesteaders should observe sanitary laws.

MOLLY vs. MILLY

1 This is the story of Molly A. Brown, A typical wife in a typical town.

2 She rushes through breakfast, then dashes to stores
And walks many miles doing errands and chores.

3 How different the story of Milly Malone! She's doing her errands and shopping by 'phone.

4 She smiles at the long miles which Molly must run
While she 'phones her orders and finds time for FUN!

Of course, it's fun to go shopping sometimes. But when you're ill or busy or can't leave the children . . . or when the weather's bad—try shopping the easy way—by telephone. It saves time, avoids traffic and leaves you more leisure for pleasure. The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania.

Nearly 400,000 U. S. Troops To Have Maneuvers

Four Areas Will See Army Action

Pennsylvania Guardsmen To Take Part In Training In New York State

MANEUVERS WILL OCCUR IN AUGUST

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 9—Modern warfare, as exemplified by the lightning legions of Adolf Hitler, will be simulated by the American army next month when nearly 400,000 troops engage in annual maneuvers.

War department officials disclosed today that American army experts have been studying every available bit of information concerning Nazi military operations.

These studies will provide the combat problems that are to be worked out during the three-week maneuvers. A considerable part of the information dealing with the action of German troops were furnished by American military observers in Europe.

Will Involve 400,000 Troops

The August war games will involve the largest peace-time concentration of American fighting forces ever undertaken. The 400,000 troops will be drawn from the regular army and the National Guard.

Four army areas have been selected for the games. These are between Plattsburg and Watertown, N. Y.; the Sparta, Wis., area; Camp Ord, Cal., and the Sadine river area in Louisiana and Texas.

The army's initial attempt to apply the military tactics of the Nazi legions was anything but successful. Critiques on various operations during the southern maneuvers recently showed blunders on the part of some officers.

Train Tank Units

Commanding officers also told of a serious breakdown in communications between advance forces and headquarters, and reported an almost complete lack of coordination between aviation forces and ground troops.

Most important phase of the August maneuvers will be the training of tank units. Army chief of staff George C. Marshall announced that every available tank and combat car will be employed in the training.

The army also plans to use civilians in the war games. Persons residing in maneuver areas will be asked to participate in air raid precaution training.

The cost of the war games is expected to be in excess of $25,000,000.

June Weather Statistics Given

Month Proves Warmer And Wetter Than Normal, Figures Reveal

June weather was wetter and warmer than normal, the figures of U. S. Weather Observer B. F. Johnson reveal. This may prove surprising to a lot of folks who were forced to light fires to warm the house up on numerous occasions during the month, but this was probably because of a lack of sunshine and the dampness.

The mean maximum temperature was 82.2, the mean minimum, 58.3, and the mean or average, 70.3. The highest was 92 degrees on June 7, and the lowest was 41 degrees on June 21. The greatest daily range was 33 degrees on June 3 and 4. The normal is 68.9 degrees, an excess of 1.4 degrees being shown.

The total precipitation for the month was 5.55 inches, an excess of 1.26 inches, the normal for June being 4.29 inches. The greatest amount of precipitation was 1.61 inches on June 15. Days with .01 inches or more of precipitation were 19, days clear, 11; partly cloudy, 13, and cloudy, 6.

In June of 1939, there was an excess of .95 inches of precipitation, and 3.3 degrees in temperature.

Ellwood Council Meets Thursday

Routine Matters Considered In Lengthy Session; To Reconvene On Thursday

ELLWOOD CITY, July 9.—When the stated meeting of the Ellwood Boro Council was held last night in the city building, only routine matters were transacted, although the session lasted on account of long discussions for several hours.

A petition requesting the water company to extend their lines between Ninth and Tenth streets on Beaver avenue before the street is paved was presented by residents and referred to the utilities committee. Later a request of the water company to take such action was passed.

From J. A. Evans, president of the Chamber of Commerce, came a request that council consider the purchase of an airport site to be used for an airmail pick up station. The letter stated that the government would provide eighty per cent of the cost and that no hangars would be necessary. It was given to the rules and regulations committee.

To protect high tension wires, a communication was received from the Penn Power Company, asking the boro to have a fence erected on the Ewing Park bridge, now under construction. The cost was to be divided between the company and the boro. The matter was referred to the rules and regulations committee for study of the original agreement of the power company and the Shelby Land Company.

It was said that the streets in the new Parkview and Rolling Hills plan of lots would be paved, according to the requirements of the boro. No further action will be taken until the required bond is posted by the promoters.

Several ordinances establishing grade lines were passed and then all ordered stricken from the minutes until a later meeting.

An ordinance authorizing the purchase of several lots from the Shelby Land Company for Ewing Park recreational facilities was passed. Part of the property is now being used for a ball diamond.

A recommendation of the fire committee that Chief Harry V. Wolfe, who has been ill for about three months, be continued on the pay roll during July was passed. Other members of the department are taking care of his duties.

Methods of eliminating the traffic hazard in Border avenue (in front of the hospital), were discussed. It was said that the no-parking signs, when obeyed, somewhat eliminated the dangerous condition. Methods of widening the street were discussed. Councilman Habert asked the boro manager to make a definite report to the board.

Taxes for 1938 amounted to $65 and for 1939 to $183. Total fines, costs and forfeits were listed at $100 in the police report. The new chief, Ernest Hartman, made a detailed report of police activities during his first month in office. Much approval of the report, a new procedure, was offered.

The session adjourned to re-convene on Thursday evening of this week.

Eighteen Planes Head Westward, Officials Hope

Eighteen Embryo Pilots Have Tough Time After Leaving Lock Haven Field

(International News Service)

DUBOIS, Pa., July 9.—Somewhere to the west, 18 new planes were headed in the general direction of Los Angeles, or at least, local airport officials who were still grinning about the feats of the Embryo pilots, hoped so.

An hour after the 18 ships took off from a Lock Haven field, a dozen landed at the Dubois port. The other six were finally located in a farmer's field at Hawthorne, near New Bethlehem.

Local officials telephoned instructions, and in addition, sent out another plane to guide them in. Before they finally reached the Dubois airport, however, three got lost before they reached Brookville and had to be rounded up again, and then two more went astray on the last stretch of the brief jump.

With a collective sigh of relief, local officials eventually brought all 18 flyers safely into the Dubois field, and then after feeding them and advising them, started them off in the general direction of Los Angeles and the west coast.

Telephone Company Places New Cables

Will Improve Lines Formerly Served By East Brook Telephone Company

New aerial telephone cables and wires are being placed by the Bell Telephone Company along the East Brook-Volant road.

The new facilities will extend Bell service into the territory now served by the East Brook Telephone Company. The latter company has decided to quit business and turn its territory over to the Bell Company.

According to Virdyn R. Caldwell, district manager, the Bell company will improve and increase telephone facilities in this territory.

The Bell company anticipates a substantial increase in business when the new facilities are ready. At present there are 82 subscribers in this area. Mr. Caldwell said it is planned to complete all work prior to the Bell Telephone directory closing date of September 30, 1940.

The work, which will cost more than $15,000 includes the placing of more than three miles of aerial telephone cable carrying from 26 to 51 pairs of wire, and 38 miles of wire.

All-Stars Are Playing Today

American League All-Stars Are Favored, Walters And Ruffing Will Start Game

By ROBERT HEREFORD
International News Service Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS, July 9.—Once again, but in a new setting, Major League baseball today presents its annual midsummer extravaganza—the All-Star game between two "dream teams" made up of the brightest stars of the American and National leagues.

A sellout crowd of 34,000 seemed assured in Sportsman's Park, home of the St. Louis Cardinals, as baseball fans poured into town from every corner of the nation.

Studded with power hitters and boasting mighty pitchers, the American and National League teams managed, respectively, by Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox and Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds, were baseball outfits to excite the envy of any Major League pilot.

Ruffing To Pitch

Charley "Red" Ruffing of the Yankees, scheduled as the starting American League hurler, will face such National batting threats as Joe Medwick of Brooklyn, Johnny Mize of the Cardinals, the Senior circuit's home run king, and Mel Ott, long distance clouter of the New York Giants.

Paul Derringer or Bucky Walters, both of Cincinnati and one of whom will start on the mound for the Nationals, will have their skill tested by such dangerous hitters as Joe DiMaggio of the Yanks, Jimmy Foxx of the Red Sox, Charley Keller of the Yankees, Ted Williams of the Red Sox, and Bill Dickey of the Yankees.

In the American League starting lineup, there was no hint that the Yankees this season have slipped somewhat from their preeminence of recent years. No less than five of McCarthy's murderers were named by Cronin for starting honors, with the Red Sox grabbing two starting posts and the Washington Senators and Chicago White Sox one each.

The National opening team showed no such preponderance of material from any one club, the Dodgers, Reds and Cardinals sharing honors with two starters apiece. One man each was placed on the starting team by Pittsburgh, Chicago and New York.

Benefit Game

The game was scheduled to start at 1:30 p. m., CST.

The big show, which once each year brings within the confine of one ball park several million dollars worth of baseball property for a single game, is staged for the benefit of the association of professional ball players of America.

In the series to date, the American League has won five games and the National two. For today's fracas, the Americans were batting favorites at odds which ranged from 5 to 2 to 2 to 1.

FRITZIE ZIVIC WINS

Fritzie Zivic, 149, sensational Pittsburgher, handed Ossie Harris, 155½, also of Pittsburgh, a second setback, last night at Hickey Park. Previously, Zivic scored a knockout. Last night, he copped the nod.

Indies To Play Old Time Stars

The Lawrence Indies, first-half champions of the City baseball league will play a team of Old Time Lawrence Indies in an exhibition game at Cedar Street Friday night at 6 o'clock.

The Old Timers are fast rounding into shape and may give the present day youngsters a tough engagement. Manager Jim Mosley of the Old Timers is confident that the older boys can defeat the present day kids.

A number of the Old Timers who played on the 1927 championship team will be on hand for another whirl at the national pastime.

Sports World Ramblings

Sports pot—Franklyn Crisci, who is serving as a Pittsburgh Pirate diamond scout, is witnessing the annual all-star game in St. Louis today. Crisci left Monday for the classic. . . . Several localites are working out plans for a local all-star baseball game. If the idea materializes, fans will select the performers. Players will be chosen from various loops.

Bobby Feller's five big headaches are: Joe DiMaggio, Taft Wright, Charles Gehringer, Rip Radcliff and Ted Williams. "Any one of the five is apt to knock you down with a line drive," says the classy Cleveland pegger. . . . Our Buccos are third in team batting in the National. The Bucs' meter reads—.266 compared to .250 for the Yanks.

Washington's pitching staff is in such bad shape that the Senators have recalled Alejandro Carrasquel, who stuck around long enough in the International to get charged with four setbacks. He did manage to win a pair of triumphs however. . . . "Dutch" Leonard, the knuckle ball artist, seems to have lost the winning formula. Poor fielding support has contributed greatly to several of his recent setbacks.

The pesky Boston Bees finally caught up to Tex Carleton. After being stung by Carelton's offerings in 31 out of 42 clashes, the Bees finally cashed in with their 12th victory over the Texan. . . . To fans writing in about Frankie Gustine: The Pirate infielder is of Irish descent.

Minneapolis continues to pile up its home run wagon. Up to yesterday, the Millers had already poled out 101 four plyers. St. Paul trails their bitter rival with 64 round trippers. . . . Minneapolis is charged with the most errors in the American Association—102. Phil Rizzuto, the K. C. prize, is the leading hitter with a .383 mark.

Thanks to friend Lawton Carver, Manhattan scribbler, we are able to report that Jack Dempsey is taking on the grunt and groaners because, "I'm not taking this so-called comeback seriously, although I really would like to box until I'm 90. This is a chance to pick up some easy money, and to have some fun, while, at the same time, get some publicity and keep in shape. I'll probably take on a few more wrestlers and then quit.', Dempsey said' Carver states that Dempsey doesn't discuss the financial side.

Bits from here and there—Alfred G. Vanderbilt, head of Belmont and Pimlico tracks, gets $2,000 a year for the Belmont job and nothing for the other! . . . Benny Leonard, retired lightweight champ, recently celebrated his 44th birthday anniversary. . . . Close to 1,000 Brooklyn fans journeyed to Boston to watch the Dodgers lose a twin bill to the Bees last week end. Ralph Guldahl says his last name is pronounced—"Good-Dall."

SYLVAN HEIGHTS LEAGUE

Sylvan Heights players will start the second half of the league race this evening at the Sylvan Heights course, with a real battle expected to ensue for honors.

Shenango Pottery, winner of the first half will be battling to retain these honors in the second half, while a number of other mighty good teams, who were well up toward the top of the list, will be in there fighting to get into a playoff with them at the end of the season.

President Geno Veri announces that there will be an important meeting of the team representatives at the close of the matches this evening.

Expects Congress To Take Recess

Senate Leader Barkley Says Ten Day Recess Is Seen For Democratic Convention

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Senate Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky predicted after a White House conference that congress would recess Thursday for 10 days because of the Democratic national convention in Chicago next week.

Barkley, Vice-President Garner, Speaker Bankhead and House Majority Leader Rayburn met with Mr. Roosevelt in the regular Monday conference shortly after the president returned from Hyde Park.

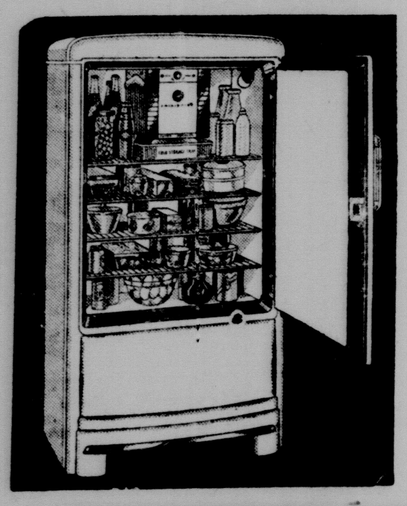

According to Barkley, the president still did not know when he would send the special message to congress for $5,000,000,000 more for national defense. The president, Barkley said, was still awaiting army and navy estimates.

Barkley explained that the congressional leaders had "a general discussion" with the president over the legislative situation on Capitol Hill. Barkley added that congress expects to get to work on the excess profits tax in a few days, when the treasury prepares an estimate of the tax it is expected to yield.

Still, they needn't be super-men in order to triumph over super-dumbness.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESERALL

I don't believe I like this world . . . the people are so queer!
Because a baby doesn't talk they fancy he can't hear;
And just because he smiles at them and doesn't seem to mind,
They call him all the names they choose.
Now, do you think that's kind?

If I could just say all I think, the folks would soon find out
There isn't much that's going on that I don't know about;
For when they see me keeping still and looking wondrous wise,
I'm listening with my little ears, and watching with my eyes.

There's one thing, though, that puzzles me, that ever since I came,
The more I hear, the less I know what really is my name.
I'm "Bouncer" to my Uncle Tom; I'm brother's "Toby Trot";
And Aunt Louisa's "Little Tike", while sister calls me "Dot".

My grandma says I'm "Honey Bunch";
I'm mama's "Little Lamb";
And grandpa always meets me with "Hello, there, Uncle Sam"
I'm Mammy's "Precious Little Coon" and "Darlin' Sugar Pig"
I'll tell her what I think of that, some day, when I am big!

I'm "Roly-Poly" and I'm "Punch," and "Humpty Dumpty," too;
I'm "Daisy" and I'm 'Toddlekins," and sometimes "Baby Blue"
"Caboozles" is the worst of all what sort of name is that?
I wouldn't give it, I am sure, to grandma's pussycat.

My papa always says "Old Man," and that provokes me so;
If I am old at just six months, who's young, I'd like to know?
I thought and thought about it till I couldn't sleep last night;
Then, very tired and very cross, I screamed with all my might.

When people wondered what was wrong, of course I couldn't tell,
And so they said, "Poor 'Tootsey Woo!" it surely can't be well!"
And never guessed I felt so bad because 'twas such a shame
That nobody would let me know what really was my name.

UNWORRIED BY WAR

EUGENE, Ore.—One man not worried by the European war was found in the hills of Curry county by a census enumerator. The hermit said he hadn't seen a radio or read a newspaper in five years and didn't know there was a war. "They were fighting when I left civilization five years ago and they'll be fighting when you come around again," he told the census enumerator.

Market Continues Aimless Trading, Early Bulge Occurs In Steel Stocks

By LESLIE GOULD
(International News Service Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, July 9.—The stock market continued its aimless trend today, although the general undertone was firmer as a result of an early bulge in steel shares.

The sharp rebound in steel operations after the July 4th shutdowns was responsible for the early buying in steel shares. Bethlehem climbed more than a point at one time, but lost most of this in the second hour. National also was up a point at the start, while U. S. Steel, Republic and Youngstown Sheet & Tube each advanced about half as much.

Chrysler and General Motors each were up about a half-point in the first few minutes of trading, but failed to hold their ground.

Likewise, aviations, rails, rubbers, coppers and electrical equipments had best levels shaded before noon although maintaining a steady undertone.

There were a few laggards scattered through the list. Included were mail orders, a few of the utilities, American Can, Allied Chemical and International Harvester.

Oils were mixed and dull. Bluechips showed little change, although Eastman Kodak was up more than a point for a time.

Super-Highway Bus Line Permit Asked Of State

Harmony Line Seeks To Run 70-Mile Per Hour "Sedan Bus" Service

(International News Service)

PITTSBURG, July 9—A 70-mile-an-hour "sedan bus" service to link Pittsburgh and Harrisburg via the new Pennsylvania turnpike in three and a half hours was proposed to the Public Utility commission today.

The applicant was the Harmony Short Line Motor Transportation company which proposed to run four trips each way daily over the 196.5 mile route. The trip would cost $5 one way.

Walter L. Welsh, general passenger agent of the line, told examiner Norman Dilley that sedans carrying a driver and seven passengers would be used. They would take route 30 to Irwin. The turnpike (tunnel superhighway) to Middlesex and Route 11 to Harrisburg.

Of the total distance, the turnpike's 155 miles would be covered at an average speed of 70 miles and hour for 140 miles, and 60 miles an hour for 15 miles Welsh testified.

The sedans would slow down to an average of 32.8 miles an hour while passing through the 6.5 miles of tunnels. Only stop enroute would be a 10-minute rest at Bedford.

Welsh disclosed he had been advised by the turnpike commission that a 75-mile speed limit was planned on the "Dream Highway" He said he would start with four round trips, leaving both Pittsburgh and Harrisburg at 7:30 a. m., 10:30 a. m., 1:30 p. m., and 5:30 p. m.

The Greyhound line and the Pennsylvania railroad opposed the application.

FALSE ALARM

City firemen were called to Highland avenue and Elizabeth street at 9:25 o'clock this morning, but firemen were unable to find any fire in the vicinity. Fire Chief James E. Thomas is considering having this box removed, or changed to another location. With a number of vacant lots around it, it has been the temptation of the youth of the neighborhood who have caused unnecessary alarms to that vicinity by turning in false alarms.

Another thing that handicaps our side is too darned much chivalry and good sportsmanship and honor in a game not played that way.

"I have three aims in view," explained the maestro before departing for South America.

"First, to give young talent a chance to play great music with the same standards of orchestral culture as in major symphonies;

"Second, to create employment, because everyone should try to make jobs in these times;

Named Chairman Of Advance Gift Committee For Fall Campaign

Joel S. McKee, vice president and cashier of the First National Bank of Lawrence County, has been appointed chairman of the Advance Gift committee for the 1940-41 Community Chest campaign. McKee's acceptance was received with gratification by all the members of the Community Chest board at their monthly meeting last night.

Hill, Francis E. Sowersby and John P. Boyles were appointed to analyze the office system and financial structure of the Chest.

Violators Of Motor Code Get Hearings

Two-Man Board Hears Cases From Seven Counties At City Hall

Violation of the Pennsylvania motor code from Lawrence and six surrounding counties had their 'day in court" in City Council chambers today.

Before a two-man board representing the penalty board of review of the state Department of Revenue at Harrisburg, the allegedly erring motorists submitted testimony on their motor code breaches. State motor policemen were present.

The representatives, who sit here periodically, take only the testimony of those involved. The Harrisburg board of review later determines penalties or whatever other action is warranted.

The local testimony takers hear violators from Lawrence, Mercer, Beaver, Crawford, Venango, Clarion counties and part of Erie county.

Urges Buck-Shot Brigade In U. S.

John M. Phillips, Head Of Game Commission Advocates Home-Defense Organization

FORMER WAR VETS INCLUDED IN PLAN

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 9.—Plans for immediate mobilization of millions of American sportsmen and farmers into an organization to be known as the buck-shot brigade for the purpose of protecting industrial interests against saboteurs and for home defense purposes if and when needed is advocated by John W. Phillips, of Pittsburgh, manufacturer, noted big game hunter and former president of the Pennsylvania game commission.

"There are approximately 7,000,000 licensed hunters in the United States. Many of them can kill a grouse on the wing with a shotgun or drop a running deer with a rifle. All are familiar with the use of firearms and have their own weapons. This number does not include the farmers who are not required to buy a hunter's license." Phillips says.

"If war should be forced upon us the buckshot brigade could include former World War veterans, Spanish-American war veterans and those beyond military age. Such an organization would quickly take care of invading parachute troops or disturbances caused by sabateurs or "fifth column" activities. It could be organized under jurisdiction of county sheriffs. American women many of whom are good shots could be included."

In a communcation to the Outdoor Writers Association of America Phillips points out that such an organization was formed in Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, when the United States went to war in 1917. When disbanded in 1919 it had 3,000 members, loyal sportsmen of the Pittsburgh area.

Emergency Order To Protect Locks And River Dams

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 9. — The United States Army Engineers today invoked emergency restrictions on the locks and dams in the Pittsburgh district, with the issuance of instructions prohibiting trespassing on federal property.

The order, it was understood, affects similar locks and dams over the nation. In the Pittsburgh area, it affects 31 locks and dams on the Allegheny-Monongahela-Ohio rivers and their tributaries, but not the flood-control projects now under construction.

Col. L. D. Worsham, new district engineer who assumed control of the Pittsburgh office this morning, said the regulations would be enforced strictly, and no special permits would be permitted, not even to newspapermen.

The action was taken under authority of a section of the rivers and harbors bill of 1917. A brief statement, issued by the Pittsburgh office said:

"Acting under instructions from higher authority, the U. S. Engineers office, Pittsburgh, Pa., has issued instructions today, rigidly restricting trespass on government properties at locks dams and flood control structures in the Pittsburgh district. The district office hopes to secure the desired result through the cooperation of the general public who will understand the necessity for such action at this time."

ONE COW AS MUCH TROUBLE AS 100 HENS

(International News Service)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—Caring for one cow requires as many man hours of labor as looking after 100 little red hens, according to a study made at Pennsylvania State College by J. E. McCord, professor of farm management and agricultural economics, and C. E. Cronemyer, clerk in the department of agricultural economics.

Half of this time is spent on milking, the study shows. Each year 71 to 87 hours are spent per cow on that particular labor. Feeding cows comes next, with an average of 37 hours per cow. Cleaning stables requires over 18 hours for each cow.
